Denischuk appointed school board chair

by Janice Harrington
Review Editor

Susan Denischuk, school trustee for the Carstairs/Cremona area, was appointed school board chair at their recent organizational meeting.

Denischuk, who served two terms with the former County of Mountain View School Board and was appointed to the Chinook's Edge transitional board which took over administration of the merged Mountain View and Red Deer county school boards in January, was the only candidate nominated for the board chair position. Ann Marie Brown, the newly elected trustee from Olds, nominated Denischuk.

Denischuk takes over the position from Earl Kinsella, a former member of the Red Deer County school board. Kinsella lost his re-election bid to Penny Archibald in Red Deer Ward 4.

Stuart Little, who defeated incumbent Ken Fulton in Red

Deer Ward 5, was elected as the vice chair after defeating Linda Yargeau, also nominated for the position. Yargeau was the former chair of the Red Deer County school board.

Denischuk said she realizes the board has some difficult issues to resolve in the next year but she hopes, now that the election is complete, the trustees will all work together.

"I think the main objective of the new board is to get focused on the same agenda and all pull together so we do the very best we can for education," she said.

Denischuk said she is very excited about the new members who have been elected to the board and has booked a planning session for the new board during the second week on November.

"I see that as a chance for us all to get to know each other."

The next school board meeting is Wednesday, November 1 in Innisfail.

Didsbury's new council gets organized

Review writer

The inaugural 'organizational meeting' of Didsbury's new town council Oct. 24 was prefaced by a swearing-in ceremony conducted by town solicitor Brian Forestell and a blessing by Rev. John Orman. Committee and board postings were allocated as follows:

Councillor Gayle Veno: Corporate Services Committee (chair), Community Services Committee, Employee Grievance Committee, Olds/Didsbury Airport Commission, Development Appeal Board, Municipal Library Board, Assessment Appeal Board, Public Safety Services Board, and a commitment to sit on the Didsbury and District Historical Society Board, pending formal application.

Councillor Dorothy Moore-Anderson: Corporate Services Committee, Parkland Community Planning Services (alternate), Municipal Planning Commission, Tourism and Economic Development Board, Assessment Appeal Board.

Councillor Vance van Dam: Corporate Services Committee, Operational Services Committee, Parkland Community Planning Services, Municipal Planning Commission, pal Planning Commission, Tourism and Economic Development Board, Assessment Appeal Board, Joint Recreation Committee, Main Street Advisory Board.

Councillor Willard Swalm: Community Services Committee (chair), Operational Services Committee, Mountain View Management Board representative, Development Appeal Board, Main Street Advisory Board, Community Services Advisory Board (member at large).

Councillor Gary Dolha: Community Services Committee, Mountain View Management Board (alternate), Environmental Advisory Board, Development Appeal Board, Assessment Appeal Board (alternate), Joint Recreation Committee, and a commitment to sit as alternate on the Didsbury and District Historical Society Board pending formal application.

Councillor Don Watt: Operational Services Committee (chair), Employee Grievance Committee, Environmental Advisory Board (alternate), Mountain View Regional Water Services Commission (alternate), Olds/Didsbury Airport Commission, Development Appeal Board, Mountain View Regional Waste Management Authority.

Mayor Ray Lea will replace Bob Armstrong as chair of the Mountain View Regional Water Services Commission, and will also sit on the Development Appeal Board and the Mountain View Regional Waste Management Authority.

Deputy mayor terms were assigned for the following periods: Coun. Vance van Dam-95/10/24 to 96/04/30, Coun. Dorothy Moore-Anderson-96/05/01 to 96/10/31, Coun. Don Watt-96/11/01 to 97/04/30, Coun. Gary Dolha-97/05/01 to 97/10/31, Coun. Willard Swalm-97/11/01 to 98/04/30, and Coun. Gayle Veno-98/05/01 to 98/10/31.

James named county reeve

by Janice Harrington
Review Editor

Second term county councillor Pat James was elected to the county reeve's chair last week at the new council's organizational meeting.

James replaces long time reeve John Grimstead who was defeated by new comer Ian Harvie in the recent municipal election.

James who sat as chair of the Mount View Management Board for one year, was acclaimed back to his seat on county council. He served as deputy reeve during his first term on council.

Jack Peck, also acclaimed back to council for a second term, was elected as deputy reeve.

James said he plans to lead council through a number of issues which face them from before the election, including the controversy over recreation agreements with the towns.

"I think that is coming along," he said. "We have a recreation policy and I think we are ready to sign with Didsbury."

He said the council is also anxious to settle the division of assets issue with Chinook's Edge school board. "We hope to have that settled soon," he said. "It's not that we are hard to deal with, it's just that we want to know what kind of ball game we're playing in."

The next county council meeting is planned for the last Wednesday in November.

When cleaning your house or office, you can help the environment by using products that are low phosphate, made with citrus or plant-based builders and are non-hazardous. You should use the minimum amount of any kind of cleaning product. Many stores now carry labels telling you which products are safe for the environment.

Town council notes

Regarding the abolishment of the 15 minute question and answer period at the start of every council meeting, Didsbury's new town council agreed to follow directives in the Municipal Government Act and asked administration to handle all town related issues and concerns for residents.

Council agreed concerns should first be addressed to administration and then, if a mutually agreeable solution had not been found, then outlined the residents be given delegate status through written notice to town council.

With written notice, residents would be given a five minute time period during the course of a council meeting to direct their concerns to council.

Mayor Ray Lea said the written notice would give council the opportunity to bring themselves up to speed on the issue.

Council appointed Robert Wright to the position of Director of Disaster Services in the wake of Al Hansen's submission of resignation.

Council formally adopted policy to continue to meet on the first and third Tuesday of every month. To accommodate council representation at the AUMA Conference scheduled for Nov. 7 - 10, the regular Nov. 7 council meeting date was changed to Nov. 6.

Viral outbreak under control at DDHS

by Elaine Wilson
Review writer

Didsbury and District Health Services reported investigating an outbreak of vomiting and diarrhea in the long term care unit last week. The outbreak which began on Oct. 16 affected 32 residents and a number of staff. No cases were reported in the acute care unit.

While one additional case was reported on Friday, Dennis Stabber, Director of Health Services at the hospital said it appears the situation is now under control.

Visitors are asked to check in at the front desk before entering units three and four which were temporarily closed to visitors for the past two weeks to contain further spread of the disease. The units will likely be opened up for limited visitation early in the week of Oct 30.

Probation for youths

Three minors who pleaded guilty to charges of break and enter to commit theft/mischief and damage to property not exceeding $5,000, were each sentenced to a year of parole and varying proportions of community service hours to be served.

The crown prosecutor said the trio gained access to the Didsbury curling rink facility on September 9, 1995 by climbing onto the roof and slipping through a vent. Once inside, the youths caused "a significant amount of damage", smearing jam on counters, ransacking the arena manager's office and hurling fluorescent light bulbs onto a concrete surface. A second break-in on the same date resulted in damage to ceiling tiles when one of the youths slipped and fell through the tiles.

After recessing to consider the matter, the judge imposed one year of probation apiece, stipulating the youths observe house rules as specified by guardians, including specific curfews, and that the parties involved discontinue any association during their probation.

Competency test ordered

The case of Murray Norman Richmond, 46, who was charged with possession of stolen property over $5,000 was set aside pending execution of the prosecution's request to determine Richmond's competency to stand trial.

Richmond was detained by Didsbury RCMP members who had been alerted to a possible problem on Oct. 20 when a Water Valley area resident who'd reported spotting a Cardinal bus being driven by Richmond. After ascertaining that the bus, valued at $45,000, had been reported stolen from a Calgary lot the previous night, police stopped Richmond (who failed to produce a valid operator's license) at a roadblock and arrested him without incident.

College granted degree program

Special to the Review

In response to increasing demand by the horticulture industry, Olds College applied for, and has been granted, approval to offer a degree in Applied Horticultural Technology next fall. This is the first program of its kind anywhere in Alberta or western Canada.

"We are elated by their recognition of us as an institution capable of providing this next discipline of specialized horticultural training," said College President Dr. Robert Turner.

Once implemented, the program will entail six semesters of study, two semesters of work placements and is expected to graduate up to 40 students per year. Individuals with pre-existing horticultural qualifications will be considered for advanced standing.

For more information about the new Bachelor of Applied Horticultural Technology Program at Olds College before the event, please contact Olds College's Dean of Land and Horticultural Sciences, Bill Souster, at (403) 556-8260.

OPINIONS / EDITORIAL

Volunteering information

Elaine Wilson

I've long since lost track of the number of times in the course of my reporting duties I've asked the question: "What is it you do, exactly?"

The answer: "I'm just a volunteer" never fails to bewilder me.

It's the word "just" that stops me cold.

Volunteers tend to be among the busiest, most caring and interesting individuals in the community. Without them, times would be bleak indeed, and yet an unsettling number view themselves as minor players in a major league game.

What is a volunteer?

I've made a short list, saluting tasks undertaken by an army I admire. If you can check off any of the following items in your own schedule, I hereby command you to put an end to any apologies offered when quizzed about your activities. Give yourself a shake, pat yourself on the back, and break out the bubbly for a congratulatory toast.

A volunteer is someone who:

- does something nobody else will do knowing full well they'll have to listen to how it could have been done better by the very people who declined to help in the first place.
- has absolutely no spare time but manages to block some out anyway.
- does a job purely for the satisfaction of seeing that it's taken care of from start to finish on schedule, often on a budget of zero.
- often receives little or no acknowledgement for a job well done while continuing to share words of encouragement and a helping hand in whatever capacity the situation demands.
- dreams up novel and innovative methods of making the mundane exciting.
- retain a spirit of enthusiasm and a sense of humor, even when the project threatens to go horribly awry.
- often hears: "Nobody else has volunteered for this task, but we knew we'd be able to count on you."
- will never hear: "You've done such a fabulous job we've decided to give you a big raise."

Quote of the week

Overheard in council chambers:

Before settling down to the serious business of setting committees in place for their upcoming three year terms during last week's organizational meeting, Didsbury town councillors traded quips as they prepared to sort through a mountain of appointments.

"Member at large"... are they looking for a certain size?"

-Coun. Gary Dolha, who is, for the record, 5' 6 1/2"

The public opinion

by Abby Wray, Councillor
Town of Swan Hills

Need a headline this week? Feel free to borrow mine. Swan Hills Ticked Off! Sound angry, you bet.

What is Swan Hills? Well if you read the Edmonton Journal in the last few weeks it's a "stinking, toxic, money sucking, garbage dump".

Wrong!
Swan Hills is a prosperous, industrial based community 220 kms NW of Edmonton. We are a young community, average twenty-something, which enjoys an almost non-existent crime rate, quality, affordable housing, full service health care (doctor/dentist/optometrist); one of the provinces most technologically advanced schools. Our business community enjoys an atmosphere of "Open for Business".

What we are not is stacks of haphazardly piled barrels, oozing green, stinking sludge. We are not afraid to drink our water or breathe our air. On average 50 babies are born in a year to Swan Hills residents (remember our population is 2,300); a virtual boom of healthy babies.

We are proud to tell our neighboring communities that we have a "wilderness playground" in our backyard and invite you to come over and play anytime. We have nothing lurking in the bushes. When you do come to enjoy nature at her finest, take time to visit the "Alberta Special Waste Treatment Centre". (This is what lately has been commonly referred to as Swan Hills.)

If you can't take the time to visit, here are few facts, just the facts! Money woes aside (I will be the first taxpayer in line to question government spending), the Alberta Special Waste Treatment Centre, Chem-Security Ltd. is not located in Swan Hills. The plant is located 17 km from the Town of Swan Hills. This is a world class facility, that provides a valuable service not just to industry, but to all Albertans concerned about the quality of their environment. Chem-Security has rid us of 70,000 tonnes of hazardous waste - wonder if anyone would want that in their backyard? So as you see, I am concerned about the cost, but I would also like Albertans to recognize the huge benefits this facility provides.

The Town of Swan Hills, its citizens, has not nor will receive any funding from the government for the operation, building or expansion of the Alberta Special Waste Treatment Centre. The only tax benefit the Town of Swan Hills receives is its tax share from all industry collected by the MD of Big Lakes.

Swan Hills is very proud to have the Alberta Special Waste Treatment Centre.

In closing, now when you and your readers think of Swan Hills, I hope you will have a clearer picture of my home town.

No ink from Edmonton

Dear Editor:

On October 10, 1995 I, a heart transplant recipient, left the U. of A. Hospital on my trek to Calgary on in-line-skates to raise awareness of the dire need for organs for live saving human organ transplantation.

We held press conferences in Edmonton, Leduc, Wetaskiwin, Ponoka, Red Deer, Innisfail, Olds, Didsbury, Airdrie and finally at our destination in Calgary. The Mayor or a designate welcomed our team at each location.

The media coverage for our cause was great in all the localities listed plus many other localities in Alberta with the exception of the Edmonton Sun and the Edmonton Journal. The others joined in the need to spread the word that people must discuss organ donation with their families, come to a consensus, then endorse the consent form on the backside of their Alberta Health Care Card.

On reaching our destination on Friday, October 20, 1995, all the Calgary media was there to greet us. The city of Calgary rolled out the red carpet, made me an honorary citizen by having me swear allegiance, presented me with the traditional cowboy hat, the whole ball of wax. That's what I call hospitality.

Perhaps, Edmonton should take lessons.

Both the major Calgary newspapers, the Herald and the Sun, carried articles with pictures of the proceedings the following day.

The H.O.P.E. (Human Organ Procurement and Exchange) program people at the U of A Hospital in Edmonton as well as the Foothills Hospital in Calgary indicated our effort was a great success with all the positive media type that was generated.

I thank the participating media for their excellent coverage and I thank all the people who endorsed their consent forms because they were made aware of our plight through the media coverage.

However, on the negative side, with the exception of a form letter read at most conferences on behalf of the Health Minister by a Regional Health Authority representative or in some cases whoever was handy. I was very disappointed by the lack of provincial government representation.

Secondly, the absolute lack of interest shown by both of the major Edmonton newspapers. It is unfortunate that neither the Sun nor the Journal felt a worthwhile life saving cause warranted coverage when most other Alberta newspapers and other media forms did. What does it take to get their attention? Blood and guts? Perhaps if after Rollerblading the 302.7 km to Calgary I should have said, "I don't remember how I got here" or something really significant like "Keillor Road". Then we would have probably gotten enough ink to pave the road to Calgary.

Ed Zaharichuk

Thank you everyone,

NOTICE

COUNTY OF MOUNTAIN VIEW NO. 17 TAX PENALTIES

Ratepayers of the County of Mountain View No. 17 are reminded that if after the 15th day of November in any year any taxes which became due and payable in that year remain unpaid, there shall be added thereto by way of penalty 12% on the 16th day of November of that year and each succeeding year so long as the taxes remain unpaid.

H.D. EPP

County Commissioner

County of Mountain View No. 17

COUNTY PERSPECTIVE - Division Of Assets -

Over the past several months a number of comments have been published in local papers which tend to discredit the County of Mountain View and Council's handling of the division of assets with the Chinook's Edge Regional District. We hesitate to resort to responding in the media but it appears that the County's position is not being advanced in any other way and it is our firm belief that it is defensible.

The Background:

The Provincial Government legislated that we regionalize with the County of Red Deer effective January 1st, 1995. Arrangements were made to carry on administrative services by County Administrations until April 30th at which time sole responsibility for the total school operation went to the Chinook's Edge.

Alberta Education provided clear guidelines as to the method and principles to apply when effecting the division of assets in a county system. These guidelines in brief are that assets purchased with education dollars go to the regional board; assets purchased with municipal dollars remain with the County.

Actions:

County Council authorized administration to have an audited financial statement prepared identifying all assets on the basis of how they were funded. This statement involved all assets purchased since the date of incorporation of the County of Mountain View on January 1, 1961. This statement was filed with the Chinook's Edge Regional Board in August and to this date has not been acknowledged by the Board.

On two separate occasions written communication has been received from the Regional Board endorsing the guidelines established by the Department of Education. The Board changed its position when the audited financial statement identified that the Board's expectations may not be satisfied.

Requests have been made by the Chinook's Edge Board to County Council to release One Million Dollars worth of cash reserves without accepting the basic principle on which the financial statement was developed.

County Council has held firm to the position that, in the interests of the ratepayers of the County of Mountain View, they cannot release funds unless the principle, i.e. assets acquired by municipal funds remain municipal and assets acquired by educational funds go to the Regional Board, is accepted by the Regional Board.

The County has already transferred to the Board approximately $300,000 worth of maintenance equipment as well as approximately 2.8 Million Dollars worth of school buses and various pieces of furniture and supplies.

In Summary:

- County Council has adhered to the Provincial guidelines established for the distribution of assets.
- Council has provided an audited financial statement to the Regional Board along with supporting documents and working papers to support this statement.
- Council has called special meetings on short notice to deal with matters relating to the division of assets in an attempt to achieve early resolution.
- At no time has the Chinook's Edge Board requested to meet with County Council to discuss the issue of assets.
- Council has offered no objection to the Chinook's Edge Board request to the Minister for mediation of this situation.
- An orderly dispatch of files and records from the County to the Chinook's Edge has been carried out by the County Administration as required and in the best interests of the County operation.

County Council feels strongly that its mandate is to protect the interests of all of the ratepayers of the County of Mountain View whose tax dollars were used to acquire the assets and to build the cash reserves identified in the Audited Financial Statement to April 30th, 1995.

Should you have any questions or concerns over this issue please contact your local councillor or Central Office (telephone 335-3311). We would be pleased to attempt to answer your questions and address your concerns.

Christmas crafts part of rural tradition

Special to the Review

In earlier times, handcrafted gifts outnumbered those purchased in stores during the Christmas season. Even today, the sentiment of these treasures has remained priceless and can be experienced again during the "Olds" Fashioned Christmas event.

A truly crafty area of central Alberta is the district in and around Olds. Olds Fashioned Christmas, now in its third year, is actively promoting the efforts of local artisans as well as other rural Christmas traditions.

"Arts, crafts, needlework, woodwork have found a new popularity," said Committee Member Patti Simoneau. "Novelty and specialty art shops are favorite stops on touring drives through the country and with Christmas quickly approaching, many people are busy finishing holiday projects, or are hunting for something special to give a loved one this year."

Craft sales begin early November with the ever-popular Christmas Potpourri, taking place at Olds College's Student Alumni Centre Sunday, November 5. A viewing time from 1:00 p.m. to 2:00 p.m. allows visitors to peruse the wares of many local stitchers, florists, woodworkers and needle workers. Articles range from tole painted cream cans to knitted children's wear to tiny tree decorations and floral arrangements for every room of your house. After viewing, the sale begins at 2:00 p.m.

Specialty stores are also open that same weekend to welcome craft shoppers. The Stitchery (located just four miles west of town) will be open Thursday, Friday and Saturday from 10:00 a.m. - 5:00 p.m. with dozens of new Christmas craft creations in stock. The Touchstone Gallery, specializing in local pottery, will hold a special opening Sunday between 12 noon and 5:00 p.m. at their shop located in downtown Olds.

Other events and sales take place throughout the season. The Touchstone Gallery will celebrate their annual Christmas Tree Day on November 13, the Olds Art Club will host a Christmas Show and Sale at the Olds Recreation Centre on Saturday, November 18 and Elf Design Studio - the town's quilting and sewing store - will open their doors for their Christmas Customer Appreciation Day on December 14 from 9:00 a.m. to 8:00 p.m.

If you require more information about Olds Fashioned Christmas, or would like your special event included in our ongoing Christmas promotion of events and activities in the Olds area, please contact Shelley Broisma at (403) 556-4611.

Children's Services 'Working Groups' launched locally

by Elaine Wilson
Review writer

The site chosen for the launching of Region Five's Office of the Commissioner of Children Working Group session Oct. 26 was fittingly appraised by attendee Lisa Lough who said: "We're in the right place for this meeting (St. Cyprian's Anglican Church Hall); you're asking people to have faith."

Lough was referring to the element of uncertainty facing the steering committee, who are charged with overseeing the 'redesigning' the Children's Service division in the face of political uncertainty.

While maintaining that "the government is strongly committed to this process" community facilitator Peter Versluys acknowledged: "as to how it's going to play out- we can't tell you that."

About 20 people, representing a variety of interests and factions, attended the meeting.

Individuals electing to take part in what could conceivably evolve into a massive undertaking involving a three-year period of local assessment and policy proposal drafting, effectively have no assurance their suggestions will be agreed to by neighboring communities involved in similar work groups across Region 5 or, ultimately, by provincial authorities. Complicating the matter further are current provincial divisions in the departments of Social Services, Justice and Children's Services. To date, these departments have yet to agree on how service delivery will be ultimately consolidated upon completion of the projected redesigning process.

At the outset, the primary goals of delivering children's services on a more culturally sensitive basis while introducing locally integrated and decentralized services with an emphasis on early intervention, were considered best served by regionalizing those services through a framework drafted on a local level.

Those in attendance at the meeting agreed the intent was admirable, but making the goals a reality was a complex and intimidating proposal.

Pearl Craig and Versluys, who will be available as resource personnel to assist individual work groups who will, in turn, "feed" policy suggestions to the steering committee, acknowledged the framework was loosely structured. While some appreciated the "grass roots input" approach, others were uncomfortable with the initial deliberate informality of the arrangement. Craig said a team approach utilizing the skills of community members from every level offered the best chance at consummating the goals outlined in the Children's Service initiative. Stating that one man had completed a one-mile race in 39 seconds, Craig said that a relay team had gone the same distance in 37 seconds.

"That says something about people working together," Craig said.

Addressing concerns voiced at the meeting that the efforts of those who agreed to volunteer as members of local working groups might ultimately be futile, Versluys pointed out the alternative could conceivably amount to having the mandate of Children's Services be dictated by the provincial government.

"The bottom line is the children." Steering Committee co-chair Rick Mousseau said, "What's best for them?"

Community Facilitator Craig agreed it was a daunting undertaking, but urged those who saw merit and promise in the attempt to redesign delivery of services to take the process one step at a time.

"As we go through this, we're going to get bogged down," Craigsaid. "We have to go back and think of one child, and remember we're [working toward] making things better for kids."

In appreciation. Captain Doreen Proctor, Area Cadet Training officer, presented the Colonel Lee S. Thompson trophy to Mrs. J. Barry and her son David of the Didsbury Army Cadet Corp for their dedication to the Army Cadet movement in Alberta. The trophy was presented at their last meeting. ## Health file

by Joyce Nolin

In the last few years some innovative health programs have been developed to help individuals remain at home longer. In some cases one spouse is caring for the other spouse and risks becoming tired and suffering signs of "burn out". In other cases other family members may be involved too. Hospitals have developed "Respite Programs" that provide a break for the caregiver, for several days, while the other spouse is cared for in the hospital. The program can be accessed several times a year. It provides opportunity for vacation or time to attend celebrations that a caregiver may never feel able to do otherwise. Some people simply use the time to rest.

Some have developed "Adult Day Support Programs". Participants in the program meet weekly with others and this allows the caregiver several hours of free time to complete household tasks, make appointments and have a well deserved break. While in the program baths may be provided, foot care may be given, meals are provided, physiotherapy may be assessed and participants may be taken on outings.

There have been some alternative types of accommodation developed that help to meet the needs of these individuals who may no longer be able to stay at a lodge because of changing health needs, but who do not really need to be cared for by a Long Term Care (Continuing Care) facility either. Lodges are considered housing accommodation and although Home Care Services (Community Care) can be accessed while living there, the time may come when that is no longer possible.

There appeared to be a gap between the housing level of lodges and the care level that Continuing Care Facilities require to ensure that they are funded. In this regard, to help bridge this gap, "Assisted Living" accommodations have been developed and others are being considered. Individuals with minor or medium type care needs can be housed.

Assisted Living provides the same service as lodges as well as nursing care and continual overseeing too. Home Care services may be used to augment nursing care that is already provided where health needs increase. In this way residents need not be placed in facilities until that service is required. Individuals have the opportunity to live their lives to the maximum extent and maintain as much independence as possible. Couples with varying health care needs can remain together in this program.

The costs of these types of services and accommodation varies a little from place to place but is usually comparable. Assisted Living charges are similar to that of Lodges.

For further information please call your local Home Care office or hospital.

North Lone Pine W.I. news

Special to the Review

North Lone Pine Women's Institute met on October 23 at Christine Milne's home, with five members answering the roll call "Something to be thankful for". All members agreed, good health and our country being free of war, were something to be thankful for.

Meeting opened with the singing of "Maple Leaf for Ever", "Red River Valley" and "When the Moon Comes Over the Mountain", with Judy Jackson, Vice President in the chair.

Evelyn Clarke reported on the executive meeting. Lone Pine Women's Institute will host the joint East and West 1996 Conference in Carstairs. Tentative dates are April 23 or April 25. Our handicraft and Home Economics display and tea will be held at Anglican Church Hall, Saturday afternoon, April 20, 1996 and judging will be in the morning.

Our branch has twinned with a Women's Institute at Port Dover, Ontario. Shirley Thompson will man the hospital gift shop on November 11.

25 cent draw was won by Hazel Milne and Bit of Fun by Christine Milne "How many words can you make from October twenty third" was won by Evelyn Clarke.

Our November meeting will be at Hazel Milne's home and bring a craft to work on. Ladies remember your items for women's shelter. Visitors are always welcomed.

Didsbury Ag Soc Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of the Didsbury Agricultural Society will be tomorrow night (Nov. 1) in the curling rink Hog Line room. First up on the agenda will be elections of directors and officers for upcoming terms. Volunteers are needed in several capacities, with an emphasis on behind the scenes work at the weekly Farmer's Market which Ag Society President Vair Whitlow said flourished over the past year. "We were getting three new tables each week," Whitlow noted. Additions to the volunteer base and new ideas are welcomed by the group. Applications for membership will be available and all interested are encouraged to turn out for the annual meeting as the Ag Society prepares for a new year. "The more people we have the better the organization will be," Whitlow concluded.

Claude Baril
Second Annual Mini Trade Show

Held in conjunction with Didsbury's annual fall Midnight Madness event, the second annual mini trade show, sponsored by the BRZ committee, is now booking tables. Booth tradespeople with wares incorporating Christmas-related themes have traditionally done very well at these booths. Substantial traffic volume is practically guaranteed, no matter what the weatherman throws at Didsbury on that particular night. "We haven't done a formal count, but I think it's safe to say about 2500 shoppers turn out (for Midnight Madness)," BRZ chair Claude Baril said. "It's a huge night for Didsbury." Baril advised only twelve booths are available for booking, with a deadline of November 10. Bookings are already coming in, so interested parties are encouraged to contact Baril at 335-3066 at their earliest convenience.

Halloween House of Doom

It is year number five for the Halloween House of Doom, and Grace Mullen said a number of new items have been added to the parade of thrills and chills. "We bought a tape [of shrieks and screams] but we never used it because the real ones would have drowned them out," Mullen said. What started out as a Halloween evening celebration for Cubs and Scouts grew so popular the Mullens wound up opening to everyone and attendance grows every year. A delegation of friends and neighbors assemble hundreds of goodie bags (last year over 350 were handed out). This year 17 ghoulish volunteers will be manning the halls of doom in a barn at the Mullen farm. To find out what happens inside this darkened maze of horror located one mile east on the Bergen Road off Highway 2A, you can take it in for yourself, beginning at 6:30 and running through to 11 p.m. Coffee and hot chocolate will be provided and it's all free. Donations will be taken for STARS, but as Mullen said: "This is something families can do together, and no one should feel they have to bring money; there is no charge."

Marg Weaver
Didsbury Museum Remembrance Day preparations

Following formal Remembrance Day wreath-laying commemoration services, the doors of the Didsbury Museum will be opened for a special tea on November 11. From 2 to 4 p.m., light refreshments and an informal program including taped war time era music and video programs will be on the agenda in the war room. "We figured it would be appropriate to recognize the 50th anniversary of VE Day," hospitality committee member Marg Weaver said. "We'll have the tea on; we invite everyone to come and join us."

Judy Harder
Home Education Program Coordinator

A small group of parents and representatives from the Home Education Program met at the Didsbury Outreach School last Wednesday night at an open house designed to clarify educational policy changes and advise home-schooling parents of options and changes to keep in mind for the upcoming school year. Recycling of schoolbook texts and other resourceful procedures were proposed to ensure funds allotted were spent in the most profitable way for students and parents. The grant structure was discussed and parents were advised the same insurance available to students enrolled in standard educational facilities was now available to home-schooled students as well. Questions on the program may be directed to Harder by calling 335-3407.

The Superkid program recognizes students who have put in their best effort in their studies and have lent a helping hand with school activities

Anne Milne and Shirley Kasprick Annual Red Cross Campaign

Fifty-five volunteers have signed on to assist with this year's Red Cross Campaign, now in progress. Volunteers will be going door to door until the campaign's conclusion at the end of November. While international relief efforts are well established, the Red Cross is also very active on a local level. Regular mobile blood donor clinics are held at Olds College. The next will take place Wednesday Nov. 1 in the Olds College Alumni Centre from 2 to 7 p.m. The Red Cross supplies 148 hospitals in Alberta and the NWT with more than 100,000 units of blood and blood products every year and more than 2000 instructors are certified annually to teach water safety to more than 150,000 swimmers each year. Milne thanked Didsbury and area residents for past generosity and urged residents to continue their support throughout the current campaign.

News from the Dragon's Den

Special to the Review

This past weekend, Mr. Drever and Miss Baker along with their Senior Girls' and Boys' volleyball teams organized a volleyball tournament. All three schools gyms were used: Didsbury High, Ross Ford and Westglen. Didsbury invited Innisfail, Sylvan Lake, Canmore, Strathcona Tweedsmuir, Carstairs, Crossfield, Hanna, Pigeon Lake, Acme, Rundle College and Koinonia. Lots of competition and great entertainment. Play began at 9 a.m. Saturday and consequently, results were not available for this column. "Intramurals" is the ongoing physical education program provided to students during noon-hours. In September, the students competed daily in volleyball matches supervised by Mr. Drever and Miss Baker. In October, the girls were given the opportunity to participate in daily aerobic classes organized by Mrs. Robertson. Next month, everyone will be invited back into the gym for basketball for three-on-three matches.

The referendum has been a hot topic for Social Studies classes and the students have even taken the initiative to poll staff and students on their opinions. Bulletin board space has been devoted to this topic and is being covered with all the recent paper clippings. On the flip side, French culture is being studied in French 10 classes with a focus away from the politics and onto travel. The students are working in the computer lab preparing "brochures" on the different tourist regions. Toll-free tourist bureau numbers have been accessed for further information.

Tuesday DHS students will be given the chance to "sing" in front of the school in a "Lip-Sync Competition" following by a drama presentation. A few volunteers have already given short performances to encourage others to participate: Mr. Taylor and Mr. Klein did some opera, while Scott Brander did a bit of Elvis -- all the classics.

Summer games funds allocated

Special to the Review

The Mountain View Summer Games Legacy Foundation met on October 5, 1995 to disburse bi-annual funds to local residents and organizations who are involved in sport and cultural activities.

The Foundation reviewed the applications and was pleased to allocate $3,579 in funds to the following:

Individual Sport Grants

Cody Bogner, Sundre, whitewater rodeo, $200; Julie Downes, Sundre, biathlon, $300; Ruth Fitzsimonds, Sundre, swimming, $400; Mike McAllister, Sundre, whitewater kayak, $500; Noah Purves-Smith, Carstairs, sailing, $200; Saskia Van Mourik, Sundre, slalom canoe, $500.

Organization Grants

Olds & District Kiwanis Music Festival Society, festival costs, $1,000; Sons of Norway Lodge, Olds, cultural classes, $100.

Leadership Development Grants

Ray Rocheleau, Olds, Coaching Clinic, $129; Betty Ayers, Carstairs, Museum Education Conference, $250.

The foundation receives its funds from the interest earned on the surplus funds of the 1983 Alberta Summer Games which were hosted in the County of Mountain View. These funds are to be used for the purpose of promoting and assisting sport and cultural development in the County.

Directors of the Foundation include: Eric Dumont, Chairman, Cremona; John Bouz, Secretary/Treasurer, Olds College; Carol Grant, Sundre; Allan Reid, County of Mountain View; Nellie Trotter, Carstairs; Dan Wourms, Olds; Carol Hadway, Didsbury.

If you or your organization are interested in applying for these grant dollars please contact your town office or your Foundation representative. The deadline for grant applications for the next disbursement of funds will be March 1996.

Mount View Lodge news

by Annie Caush
Special to the Review

Hi all! Trust you all enjoyed a pleasant Thanksgiving weekend. Here at the Lodge those who didn't join family or friends enjoyed a turkey dinner and all the good things that go with it.

With the weather still quite nice, many of us are enjoying daily walks around the neighborhood. We know all too well that winter is coming so we may as well get out and about when we can.

Last Monday some auxiliary members and helpers had a birthday party for our residents who have birthdays in October. There are six who celebrate this month - Mrs. Dunlop, Mrs. Gamble, Mrs. Horne, Mrs. Jackson, Mrs. Schlag and Doug Burns. We had entertainment by the Carstairs Kitchen Band followed by a delicious lunch.

Thanks all!

Last Saturday a good group went to Carstairs to the Chinook Winds Lodge Fall Tea. They had a nice display of baking and crafts and we enjoyed the afternoon very much. One of our residents was even lucky and won one of the door prizes. Congratulations Mrs. Drever.

In hospital we have Mrs. Hudson, Mrs. Palamar and Mrs. Richards. We hope to see you home soon.

Architect meets with interested main street owners

by Janice Harrington
Review Editor

The project architect hired to oversee Didsbury's Main Street program met with business owners earlier this month and was overwhelmed by the amount of interest.

After meeting with 10 business owners with property along the main street designated area, Lorne Simpson said he was impressed by the community enthusiasm for the project.

"This is very high community interest for year one," he said. "When I was working in Medicine Hat, we only had one business owner interested in the first year."

Simpson, who has nine years of experience working with the Main Street program, took the time to meet with business owners to explain some of the nuts and bolts of the Main Street project which, in Didsbury, is coordinated by David Mohr.

Simpson told the business owners who included Dorothy Moore, Jim Turner, Al Tuggle, Bruce Freeman, Ken Ta and Bob Whitlow, the Main Street program generally contributes up to 2/3 of the cost of restoring Main Street area businesses to their historic state and to find physical means to increase business. Funding for the projects comes from various sources including the federal government under unemployment insurance and Canada Job Strategies and from the autonomous Alberta Historical Resources Foundation. Provincial funds are directed to the Alberta Main Street Program which uses its resources to pull all the players together and find the outside funding.

In terms of the time line for the Didsbury project, Simpson said construction could begin as early as next April or may once proposals are submitted by business owners, the needs of the building are established and a budget is drafted. Then applications for funding are made. How much funding is found determines the final project.

"The program recognizes that we are dealing with small businesses and cash flow is critical," Simpson said. "If a business can only afford $300, we can still do something."

He said the program is flexible enough to let businesses decide how much they can afford to spend, right up to the time before construction begins.

"We can accommodate changes part way in to the program, expanding or shrinking," he said. It is important for business owners to recognize there is a lot of ability to manipulate costs. We have the ability nearly at any time to change minds."

Simpson said costs during the project are strictly accounted for and the business owner is invited to review the project on an ongoing basis.

"Everybody is on the same side of the table here unlike when you hire a general contractor and he's on one side of the table and you're on the other."

Didsbury initial application to the Main Street program will last three years but Simpson said applications for extensions are often granted, especially when several projects are lined up when the three year deal expires.

At the end of the meeting several business owners expressed interest in the project, some even submitting letters of interest which gives Simpson the authority to begin investigating what work will need to be done.

Gauging interest. Main Street Project architect Lorne Simpson met with several business owners in Didsbury to discuss the aspects of the main street improvement program. Many of the business owners expressed interest in participating in the program and signing on to have their buildings restored. Simpson said he was surprised by the amount of interest. Coordinators hope to start their first project this spring. Janice Harrington photo.

Main Street Beat

We hear a lot about the Internet (otherwise known as the Information Super-highway). What exactly is this Internet and of what use is it? The first thing the Internet represents is change - change to the way businesses and other organizations conduct their affairs. The Internet has the potential to allow these organizations to be more efficient and to discover and develop new ways of marketing, selling, offering services, delivering services and accessing and disseminating information.

What is the Internet? Is it an office or corporation? Or is it a government agency? Is it some entity or body? The answer to all of these questions is no, the Internet is not any of these. All the Internet really is, is a voluntary ensemble of computers linked together electronically and whose users have agreed to electronically communicate in certain, specific ways (known as protocols). With the widespread use and ownership of computers worldwide, and with the ease of hooking into the Internet (all you need is a modem and inexpensive software) the importance and potential impact of the Internet is huge. If for no other reason, the Internet is important because it is the edge of a trend in which all the computers in the world can be wired together.

Some sources (see the "Canadian Internet Advantage" by Jim Carroll and Rick Broadhead) go so far as to state that the Internet is "one of the most significant events in human history, equal in importance to the invention of the printing press and the telephone". Quite a statement considering the comparison made! Yet there is justification for such a statement. The printing press and the telephone are both instruments for transmitting information so is the Internet. The advantage of the Internet is exactly the advantage upon which these other inventions capitalized... faster, more efficient communication of information. With the Internet everyone who connects can become a source and a consumer of information. As the highways of Alberta are a vehicle for the traffic of goods and people, the Internet is a vehicle (as well as a source) for information (thus the analogy to a super-highway). With the trend throughout the world towards an information-based economy the existence of the Internet is as important as the existence of highways, ports and harbors and airports.

DAVID MOHR

Didsbury Main Street Coordinator

The implications of the Internet are so far and wide-reaching that we really cannot be sure of what will happen, but one thing is clear - the Internet's impact will be dramatic!

The "Canadian Internet Advantage" details several trends, some of which are: continued corporate growth indicating increased business use; the World Wide Web (WWW), which is an information tool, is growing at a rate of 25 percent every month; the number of computers connecting to the Internet is growing at an exponential rate with about five million computers (not users) hooked to the net as of January 1995; and major communications companies (including AGT) are getting into the business of selling access to the Internet while software companies like Microsoft and IBM are building Internet access software directly into their computer software systems.

One of the most important points to remember when discussing the Internet is this: its not the technology but the opportunities that is important. We can talk all day about whether we should be using a 28.8 or 14.4 modem or the intricacies of the TCP/IP protocol but with the emergence of user-friendly software to access the Internet the issue is simple - how does one take strategic advantage of this resource?

I intend to discuss the Internet in this column in the future and welcome comments or suggestions. Please contact me at 335-3265 anytime, or visit the Main Street Office at 2009 - 20th Avenue next to the Post Office Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday from 10:00 a.m. to noon. At other times I may not be in the Office so call ahead.

200 - BUSINESS OPPORTUNITIES

FRANCHISE OPPORTUNITY CHICKEN DELIGHT OF CANADA

Chicken Delight has been pleasing customers for over forty years by combining two of North America's fast food favourites - Chicken and Pizza - along with other menu items such as ribs, fish and shrimp. Our restaurant system is proven in numerous rural markets throughout Saskatchewan and Manitoba.

Didsbury has been identified as a prime franchise market and we are looking for the person or persons with the right combination of resources and commitment to make this happen. Our system works well in both new start-ups and conversions of existing operations. We also have an "express" system which can be operated inside an existing business.

If you are interested in this or other franchise opportunities with Chicken Delight, contact: Jeff Meyer, Director of Franchise Development, Chicken Delight of Canada Ltd., 395 Berry Street, Winnipeg, Manitoba, R3J 1N6. Ph: (204) 885-7570 or Fax: (204) 831-6176.

Minor points lead to second loss

by Robert Magee
Review writer

The Olds Grizzlys had a quiet last week playing only two games which added to their record one win and one loss.

Well, that's acceptable right? Yes it is, if you are just reading about the results. But if you had attended the game on Tuesday, Oct. 24th against the Calgary Canucks you would probably think otherwise.

The Grizzlys were clearly out played, out shot and out scored in the first 40 minutes of the match-up. They would not just wither away and die however, as the last 20 minutes proved to be a roller coaster of emotions when the Grizzlys out shot and out hit the Canucks making it a one goal game.

Still trailing with 2:10 left in the game, the Grizzlys were given a power play opportunity. They swarmed the net and fired shot after shot at Canuck goalie Kevin Kent who was absolutely brilliant in the third period. They did not score and were handed their second loss of the season.

It was many minor points which pulled them down. First of all, the Grizzlys did not blend well as a unit on defence as they allowed two goals to be jammed in from right in front of goaltender Stephan Wagner. Secondly they took a few silly penalties which held back any chances of a momentum swing. And finally, with under 10 seconds left in the game and both teams back to even strength, the Canucks iced the puck. However it wasn't whistled down with six seconds remaining as it should have been which would have given the Grizzlys one last chance to tie it with the face off in Calgary's end and a 6-5 man advantage. But there's no use analyzing it or complaining about it as it's all in the record books now, and after all it's only their second loss.

The main question now was how would the number one team, Olds, play against the number two team, St. Albert?

That question was answered very clearly as the Grizzlys took it to the Saints in an 8-2 beating. The win improves their record to 12-2-1 and keeps the Griz on top of the AJHL standings. Grizzly goal scorers were Dan Heilman, Pete Horcek, Jared Schroeder, Tyler Barabonoff (2) and veteran John Pouzar with a hat trick to go along with his two assists.

Olds again has a semi-quiet week as they play only two games, one on Halloween night against the Fort Saskatchewan Traders and again on Friday, Nov. 3rd as they entertain the Bow Valley Eagles.

On the way. Coach Bruce Robertson of the Didsbury Novice 1 team, encourages his players as they take on their first challenge of this minor hockey season. Several minor hockey teams took to the ice all day on Saturday. Janice Harrington photo

October rush

There's nothing else like baseball,
Giant aspirin against strife,
Especially World Series,
Mends the broken bats of life.

Springtime unloads with openers,
Dreams of all teams involved,
Play ball until fall weather,
And a Series to be solved.

Month of October party,
Fan hearts pump at full pitch,
American and National,
Their fans know which is which.

Hits that make baseball history,
Great pitching arms, same thing,
The greatest sport may, in fact, be
Within a baseball swing.

Too soon it will be over,
We have to live with that,
Until then, more World Series war,
Is welcome up to bat.

Barbershop music returns to the Rosebud Valley

Special to the Review

The harmonies and humor of barbershop quartets and Sweet Adelaines return to the Rosebud valley on Saturday, November 4.

Four quartets from Calgary to Medicine Hat will sound forth on the Rosebud Opera House stage. Strolling barbershoppers will also entertain guests during a pre-concert meal in the Rosebud dining rooms.

"This type of music is very popular in Alberta," said LaVerne Erickson, director of Rosebud School of the Arts and a confirmed fan of barbershop music. "It's fun to sing and musicians feel free to joke around with the audience."

This barbershop concert is the fourth held in Rosebud. Last year, the audience members sang along with old favorites and laughed heartily at the jovial banter on stage. The quartets were rewarded a standing ovation at the end of the night.

Four-part acappella harmony distinguishes barbershop music from other choral groups. The repertoire often includes cherished hymns and romantic melodies. Male groups are known as barbershoppers and women's choruses are called Sweet Adelaines. Even though barbershop groups have since long moved out of the "shave and haircut" establishment, a relaxed, spontaneous atmosphere is still part of the performance.

The concert is hosted by Rosebud School of the Arts and organized by "Brass" quartet from Calgary. Barbershop quartets make frequent contributions to agencies for the visually disabled. Concert revenues will be donated to services for the visually impaired and to the scholarship fund at Rosebud School of the Arts.

A few tickets for this popular event are still available and may be obtained by calling Rosebud School of the Arts at 677-2001 or 1-800-267-7553.
